After their picnic dinner the young white people went to Carlton hall and spent the afternoon in a social dance, the music being furnished by Harry West of Melrose.

The colored picnic was attended by the negroes from the country all around Carleton, and the principle feature was a base ball game between the nines of Interlachen and Edgar, the latter winning by a score of 17 to 10. J. H. Monroe had charge of the colored picnic.

CLYDE LINE NOW ON THE RACK.

Palatka Board of Trade Will Insist on Waiting Room.

At the meeting of the Palatka board of trade on Monday night that body, by resolution, determined to go after the Clyde Line of Steamers in a demand for a suitable waiting room in Palatka. Some hot speeches were made, that of Mayor Davis being the most vigorous. The resolution was passed unanimously and there was a large attendance of business men at the meeting. Some went so far as to voice their determina-tion to boycott the line unless sometion to boycott the line unless something was done in the way of providing suitable waiting room facilities for Palatka passengers. The line has never had a waiting room here and as passenger boats pass Palatka at night a waiting room is not an unreasonable demand.

The situation is complicated. The river front where the Clyde boats land belongs to the Hart estate, manged by R.
H. Thompson of Bawsten. Capt. R. J.
Adams has been a tenant of the Hart's for many years, and is agent for the Clyde's. He is opposed to any change in the present arrangements.

The board of trade has a membership of more than a hundred of our best busi-ness men, and now that this organization has taken the matter up there is a chance that something will be accomplished, even though the situation be complicated. The board has appointed a committee consisting of Mayor Davis, Col. H. M. de Montmollin and F. H. Wilson. This committee is going to Jackson-ville—if it hasn't already gone—and will have a talk with the Clyde management. The News understands that the committee had in view a plan to secure an adjoining river frontage of Martin Griffin, but the death of that gentleman will make delay necessary, but the matter will eventually be taken up with his estate.

The demands of the public are larger than those of any one, or several, indi-viduals. The new Palatka unquestionably does demand something in the way of waiting room facilities at the Clyde Line dock, and the people will undoubt-edly support the efforts of this commit-the representing our leading commercial organization.

Capt. R. J. Adams, local agent of the Clyde Line, when seen regarding the action of the board of trade said: "That's 'the duke's' kick, and he's a chronic damphool. What do you think of a proposition to build a waiting room to cost a thousand dollars a year, with a cape has been potent in every good. business in the same time doesn't amoust to over $200—it's all damphool-ishness."

News of Mr. Griffin's death came by wire to his son, Mr. John T. Griffin about 9 o'clock Wednesday morning. When the News called at the house Rev. Father Barry was with him. His pastor, Rev. Father Barry, was to officiate by request of the deceased, made some time ago.

The party left Palatka in high spirits and in full anticipation of a most enjoy; able trip. They were in no especial hurry, and would stop when weary at some wayside inn, and enjoy the scenery as they passed along historic roads.

That the party during the first week of the trip did not realize to the full all the pleasures they had so foodly anticipated, is evident from the following letter to the editor of the News, written by Mr. Gowen last Monday. Ile says:

The City Tax Rolls. The city council of Palatka is having some trouble of its own. Most every night this week the council has been acting as an equalization board and go-ing over the city assessor's books. But low minor changes have been made. Where parties have been guilty of im-proving their property the added value has been noted. Some property which owners have for years required as as-sessed too high will not be molested. Other property that people other than the owners have regarded as assessed too low, has likewise been allowed to go unchanged.

But the councilmen are generally agreed on one thing that should bring joy to the hearts of men who have accumulated city real estate—they favor a reduction of the millage form 20 to 17

The board feels that this can be done. Palatka is in good shape financially. It had a total of $30,262,38 in the strong box July Ist, and that, after having just paid the semi-annual interest on bonds.

Of the total amount in the treasury, $3,432,44 is in the sinking fund. This fund for the payment of the bonds as they fall due, the council expects to run to between $9,000 and $10,000 per year. Palatka is on Easy street.
